RPL (RECOGNITION OF PRIOR LEARNING)

...is the formal acknowledgement of a person's current skills and knowledge
...is a way of providing evidence where learning has occurred through

- Workplace experience; paid or unpaid
- Formal or informal study
- Life experiences

The evidence gathered is aligned to a nationally recognized qualification.

A variety of evidence can be presented including:

- Verbal questioning
- Practical tasks
- Observation
- Third party reports
- Certificates from other courses

This evidence is documented against an assessment tool for the selected qualification.

MDS Training Centre can offer RPL for the following qualifications:

- BSB40807 Certificate IV in Frontline Management
- BSB51107 Diploma of Management
- CHC30208 Certificate III in Aged Care
- CHC40108 Certificate IV in Aged Care
- CHC40308 Certificate IV in Disability Work
- CHC50108 Diploma of Disability
- CHC40508 Certificate IV in Mental Health
- TAA40104 Certificate IV Training and Assessment

RPL can be used for a full or partial qualification and the MDS Training Centre follows the rules and principles of validity, currency, sufficiency, authenticity, reliability, flexibility and fairness in its treatment of evidence provided.

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

Q. Can I receive RPL for a whole qualification?

A. Yes. RPL is a valid way of assessing competence

Q. Are there resources to assist me to develop my RPL portfolio of evidence?

A. Yes. You will be provided with an assessment tool, a guide, an initial interview with a skilled assessor and suggestions of suitable evidence. Ongoing face to face, telephone and email support is also available.

Q. What happens if gap areas are identified?

A. It may be possible to provide additional evidence after discussion with your assessor. If not, a customized assessment tool will be provided which may include observation, questions, case studies or scenarios to support you to address the gap.

Q. What fees are applied?

A. Fees vary depending on the qualification being sought and will be provided after the initial consultation.
